Hey are you using your law on a project right now? If not we could rent it from you for a couple of days

Lull

I know we are using one of them. Let me check on other

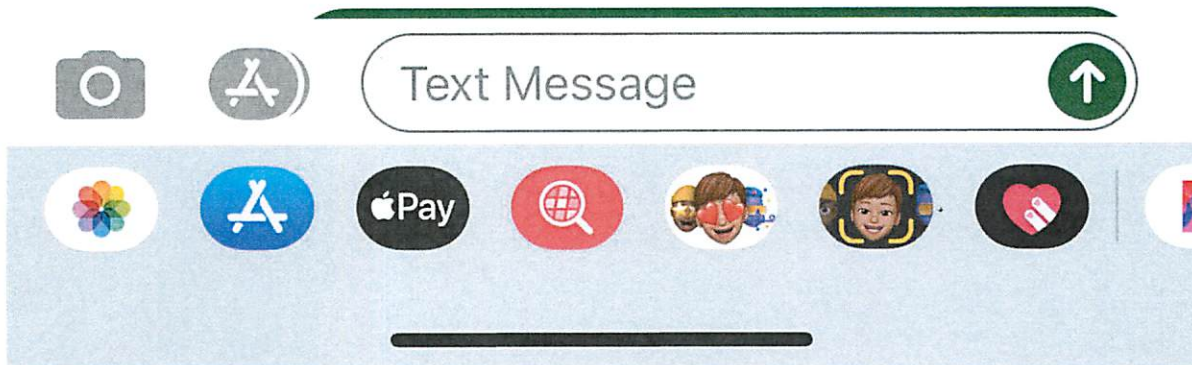

All of them are on job sites

Ok thanks

Good morning just want to plant a seed for you to think about with the stimulus package and your last year standard package and your last year payroll numbers maybe we can use to reduce the loan balance on the note for the stock although I know all of the proceeds will not be forgiven with your reduced payroll I'm understanding it's going to be at a very favorable interest rate Let me know your thoughts when you have a chance thanks

Larry and I have talked about it for sure. I'm still deep into the credit line at the moment but we plan on getting together to see where to allocate. These truck payments are killing me. I want to lay them al off. Get titles and then sell them So I can breath

Sounds good based on what I'm seeing if you have extra funds you would probably save half of the interest of what you're currently paying me on the note but you need to be comfortable first and foremost
