DANIELA RENDON

Petitioner,

vs.

Case No: 23-CR-20036-KMM-1

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

Respondent.

MOTION FOR REDUCTION IN SENTENCE PURSAUNT TO 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A)(i); AS MS. RENDON'S MINOR CHILD DOES NOT HAVE A PRIMARY CARE PROVIDER; THE FACT THAT SHE IS NO LONGER A THREAT TO PUBLIC SAFETY, AND OR A REDUCTION PURSAUNT TO AMENDMENT 821.

INTRODUCTION

People grow, mature and evolve, and because conditions and circumstances change, it is virtually impossible to make sound decisions when first imposing sentence about precisely how long someone should spend behind bars. But that is exactly how the federal criminal justice system works. Judges are required to act as if they are omniscient and the prison terms they impose are – for all intents and purposes – final. Rendon has done everything in her power to rehabilitate herself as demonstrated by her genuinely exceptional accomplishments and meritorious record.

Rendon does not seek to justify, diminish, or detract from the seriousness of her offenses. And she unequivocally accepts responsibility for her criminal conduct.

Ms. Rendon now moves this court pro-se for an order granting a reduction of sentence as she respectfully submits that “extraordinary and compelling reasons,” exist for a reduction of Ms. Rendon’s sentence.

FACTS

Petitioner Daniela Rendon was charged in a 10-count indictment (Doc. 1). Count 1-7 charged that Rendon, knowingly with the intent to defraud and to obtain money and property by means of materially false and fraudulent representations, did knowingly transmit by means of wires, in interstate commerce, certain communications in violation of Title 18, U.S.C. §1343. (Doc. 1:5-7). Counts 8-9 charged Appellant with knowingly engaging, and attempting to engage in, a monetary transaction with a financial institution involving criminally derived property of a value greater than $10,000, knowing that the property represented the proceeds of unlawful activity, in violation of Title 18, U.S.C. §1343 and Title 18, U.S.C. §1957 and §2. (Doc. 1:8). Count 10 charged Appellant with, during a violation of Title 18, U.S.C. §1343 wire fraud as charged in Count 2, knowingly used without lawful authority, a means of identification of another person, that is, the name, address, date of birth, and Social Security number of “A.G.,” in violation of Title 18 U.S.C. §1028A(a)(1) and §2. (Doc. 1:8-9).

Rendon pled guilty on April 25, 2023 to Count 1 of the indictment charging Appellant with wire fraud (Doc. 40), in violation of Title 18, U.S.C. §1343 and she was sentenced on August 17, 2023 (Doc. 62). On August 21, 2023, the trial court entered judgment, and Appellant Rendon received a sentence of 41 months for count 1, and a supervised release term of three years. (Doc. 63). The district court did not consider, and was not asked to consider, whether Rendon was entitled to 4C1.1 criminal history points calculations under Chapter 4 of the Sentencing Guidelines to Appellant Rendon. (Doc. 89).

ARGUMENT

Ms. Rendon would ask that the Court consider a reduction pursuant to Amendment 821. On November 1, 2023, the U.S. Sentencing Commission amended U.S.S.G. § 4A1.1, “Criminal History Category,” by striking subsection (d) which had read: “Add 2 points if the defendant committed the instant offense while under any criminal justice sentence, including probation, parole, supervised release, imprisonment, work release, or escape status.” In its place, the Commission inserted new subsection (e):

Add 1 point if the defendant (1) receives 7 or more points under subsections (a) through (d), and (2) committed the instant offense while under any criminal justice sentence, including probation, parole, supervised release, imprisonment, work release, or escape status.¹

The Commission also amended the commentary to § 4A1.1 by striking Note 4, which instructed a sentencing court to add two points if the offense was committed while under “any criminal justice sentence” (“status points”), and adding new Note 5 which states in part: “One point is added if the defendant (1) receives 7 or more points under §4A1.1(a) through (d), and (2) committed any part of the instant offense (i.e., any relevant conduct) while under any criminal justice sentence, including probation, parole, supervised release, imprisonment, work release, or escape status. Failure to report for service of a sentence of imprisonment is to be treated as an escape from such sentence.”

The Commission made further changes as outlined below;

(Zero-Point Offenders)

Subpart 1 (Adjustment for Certain Zero-Point Offenders)

Chapter Four is amended by inserting at the end the following new Part C:

“PART C — ADJUSTMENT FOR CERTAIN ZERO-POINT OFFENDERS

§4C1.1. Adjustment for Certain Zero-Point Offenders

(a) Adjustment.—If the defendant meets all of the following criteria:

¹ The amendment has been designated as Amendment 821 in the Appendix to the U.S. Sentencing Guidelines.

- (1) the defendant did not receive any criminal history points from Chapter Four, Part A;
- (2) the defendant did not receive an adjustment under §3A1.4 (Terrorism);
- (3) the defendant did not use violence or credible threats of violence in connection with the offense;
- (4) the offense did not result in death or serious bodily injury;
- (5) the instant offense of conviction is not a sex offense;
- (6) the defendant did not personally cause substantial financial hardship;
- (7) the defendant did not possess, receive, purchase, transport, transfer, sell, or otherwise dispose of a firearm or other dangerous weapon (or induce another participant to do so) in connection with the offense;
- (8) the instant offense of conviction is not covered by §2H1.1 (Offenses Involving Individual Rights);
- (9) the defendant did not receive an adjustment under §3A1.1 (Hate Crime Motivation or Vulnerable Victim) or §3A1.5 (Serious Human Rights Offense); and
- (10) the defendant did not receive an adjustment under §3B1.1 (Aggravating Role) and was not engaged in a continuing criminal enterprise, as defined in 21 U.S.C. § 848; decrease the offense level determined under Chapters Two and Three by 2 levels.

After receiving public commentary on the proposed amendments, the Commission announced that the provision of Amendment 821 removing the status points under § 4A1.1(d), and allowing the 2-point decrease for those with a criminal history score of 1. This applies to Ms. Rendon. The commission made these changes retroactively applicable to those sentenced prior to November 1, 2023. On November 1, 2023, Amendment 821 went into effect, removing the so-called “status points,” and “Zero Offenders.” under U.S.S.G. § 4A1.1(d), and the Sentencing Commission made this amendment retroactively applicable to those sentenced prior to its enactment.² Ms. Rendon qualifies for Amendment 821's retroactive decrease of the base offense points and therefore files this motion for relief. She asks that the Court consider this issue in conjunction with the family issues, and rehabilitation as stated below and grant a reduction in this case.

Ms. Rendon's PSR calculated her total offense level as a level 22 with a criminal history category of I (Ms. Rendon has no prior criminal history). As a result, Ms. Rendon was facing an advisory sentencing guidelines range of 41 to 51 months of imprisonment. The Court imposed a term of 41 months – the low end of the guidelines. If the Court were to apply Amendment 821 the new advisory guideline range would be 33-41 months.

Ms. Rendon is now 32 years old and has a release date of May 21, 2026. She is the mother of two children. She has a 12-year-old niece that is in her custody - Manuela, a 13-year-old daughter Paulina, and a 6-year-old son Enzo. Ms. Rendon's 65-year-old mother Gilda Isabel was, and is the primary care provider for the children. Unfortunately, Ms. Isabel is here in the US on a Visa and must return to Spain. This will leave the children with no primary care provider.

² Under the terms of the amendment, inmates may file their motions on or after November 1, 2023, but may not be granted judicial relief until on or after February 1, 2024. As a practical matter though, the Bureau of Prisons, in conjunction with the Administrative Office of US Courts and other judicial agencies, is seeking to pre-determine inmate eligibility for § 3582 relief in an effort to accelerate pre-release planning in appropriate cases.

Here, Ms. Rendon is the only real primary care provider that can adequality care for the child and provide her with the loving and stable home that the children need and deserves. See Exhibit A.

This court has the authority to reduce the sentence in this case and or order home confinement based on the minor children needing a primary care provider. See United States v. London, No. 3:17-CR-00176, at *2 (M.D. Tenn. Apr. 12, 2021), In this case, London sought a reduced sentence in order to "take custody of his minor child, whose mother passed away on December 20, 2019." The Court agreed and granted compassionate release stating, "Although Jones no longer requires courts to consider the Sentencing Commission's policy statements when deciding compassionate release motions, those statements "still provide[] a useful working definition of 'extraordinary and compelling reasons,' and thus may be consulted to 'guide discretion without being conclusive.'" U.S. v. Cole, No. 18-20237, 2021 WL 194194, at *1 (E.D. Mich. Jan. 20, 2021) (citing U.S. v. Gunn, 980 F.3d 1178, 1180 (7th Cir. 2020)). Moreover, courts "continue to lean on [the Family Circumstances provisions of § 1B1.13(1)(C)] when defining 'extraordinary and compelling circumstances' in the context of familial hardship. U.S. v. Davis, No. 2:13-cr-00046-8-JRG, 2021 WL 829367, at *7 (E.D.

Tenn. Mar. 4, 2021); see also U.S. v. Taylor, No. 19-20056, 2021 WL 21760, at *2 (E.D. Mich. Jan. 24, 2021). Post-Jones courts have concluded that "an extraordinary and compelling reason may exist following the death or incapacitation of the caregiver of the defendant's minor child or minor children." Cole, 2021 WL 194194, at *2.

The Court finds that such reasons exist here, as the mother of London's minor child has died. (See Doc. Nos. 108-5, 108-6, 108-7). Although the minor child is currently being cared for by London's aunt, the family agrees that it would be in the "best interest of the child that she be cared for by her remaining, living parent." (Doc. No. 108 at 3; see also Doc. No. 117). Courts have been sensitive to instances where alternate family members caring for the child would not be in the minor child's best interest. See Cole, 2021 WL 194194, at *2-3. Accordingly, and in light of Jones, the Court invokes its "full discretion" to determine that "extraordinary and compelling" reasons exist to justify London's compassionate release. Jones, 980 F.3d at 1109. United States v. London, No. 3:17-CR-00176, at *2-3 (M.D. Tenn. Apr. 12, 2021).

This is similar to the case at bar in that Ms. Rendon's mother is 65 years old, and must leave the country as her Visa is expiring and there are minor children that need a primary care provider and the only person at this point that can do that is Ms. Rendon. The Court has the authority to consider these issues in determining if a reduction in sentence is applicable. As the law stands now this Court has the exclusive authority to reduce the sentence in this case and may rely on these factors alone in doing so. However, there are more issues that this Court can consider in conjunction with the issues above to support a reduction in sentence.

Ms. Rendon also submits that her rehabilitation is a factor that this Court can and should consider in deciding whether or not there is extraordinary and compelling reasons to reduce the sentence in this case in conjunction with the needs of the children for a primary care provider. As this court is well aware Ms. Rendon has no criminal history prior to the instant offense in which she expressed a deep remorse for her actions.

In the instant case, Ms. Rendon has expressed sincere remorse for her criminal conduct and the long-reaching effects that it had on society during a time of unprecedented hardship. In her written statement to the Court, Ms. Rendon reflects on how her covid-relief fraud directly affected struggling businesses and employees by removing an opportunity for them to seek legitimately needed assistance. See (Dkt#56 Exhibit 1, Statement of Daniela Rendon. She further expressed her intention to atone for her crime and repay society for the harm she caused. Id.

Ms. Rendon has undertaken substantial efforts to thoroughly understand the impact of her crime and how it contributed to the various hardships that everyday hardworking Americans endured during the Covid-19 pandemic. Ms. Rendon spent considerable time researching and educating herself on the pandemic's effects on society as well as the intended purpose of Covid-19 economic relief programs. Ms. Rendon used this information to prepare an extensive "thesis" that examines the impact of Covid-19 and economic relief fraud on society. See Id. at Exhibit 2, Impact of Covid-19 by Daniela Rendon. However, the most significant aspect of Ms. Rendon's rehabilitative efforts is the comprehensive plan that she developed to remedy the harm she caused to society. Ms. Rendon's thesis discusses the plan in detail.

Ms. Rendon undertook extensive efforts to atone for her crime and has shown genuine remorse. It is apparent from her written statement and thesis that Ms. Rendon fully realizes that her offense was not a victimless crime against the government, but one committed against everyday Americans. Ms. Rendon's post arrest efforts to rehabilitate herself are a testament to her character and suggests that she is unlikely to engage in future criminal behavior. Ms. Rendon's history and characteristics reveals a life dedicated to serving her family and devotion to her children.

See Lois M. Davis, et al., Evaluating the Effectiveness of Correctional Education: A Meta-Analysis of Programs That Provide Education to Incarcerated Adults, RAND CORP. (2013) (explaining, a meta-analysis of studies that evaluated correctional education and post-release recidivism found that “on average, inmates who participated in correctional education programs had 43 percent lower odds of recidivating than inmates who did not”).

There is no excuse for her actions, however, Ms. Rendon submits that given all the factors as outlined above the current sentence is longer than necessary in this case to achieve the objectives that a sentence be sufficient but not greater than necessary, to achieve the goals of sentencing as spelled out in 18 U.S.C. § 3582 in light of all of the facts of this case.

After the changes made to the compassionate release statute by the First Step Act, district courts no longer require a motion from the Director of the Bureau of Prisons to resentence federal prisoners under 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A)(i). This Court may resentence if a prisoner files a motion and establishes extraordinary and compelling reasons for a sentence reduction. Those extraordinary and compelling reasons are present here.

Ms. Rendon has properly exhausted her claim for a reduction of sentence under the compassionate release provision, and she presents this Court with extraordinary and compelling reasons for reducing her sentence. See Exhibit B.

Rendon has filed a request for a reduction of sentence under the compassionate release statute with the warden, Exhibit B. The BOP has not filed a motion within 30 days with the Court regarding Rendon's request; thus, Rendon has properly exhausted her claim. See 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A) (courts can reduce a sentence "upon motion of the defendant," if the defendant has fully exhausted all administrative remedies). All the First Step Act requires is the 30-day time frame - the text of the legislation makes this clear. See United States v. Rita Gluzman, 2020 WL 4233049, (SDNY 7-23-20).

Some people do change, and when that change has been made, federal tax dollars should not be wasted on overincarcerating our citizens.

At the time of sentencing what decision makers cannot measure is the ability for people to change. However, some people do. Ms. Rendon is one of those people. One Court has stated, "[m]any defendants who pass through this Court ultimately become fully functioning members of society—they achieve, so to speak, rehabilitation." United States v. Torres, 464 F. Supp. 3d 651, 664 (S.D.N.Y. 2020). The criminal justice system is not premised on the idea that conviction magically changes a person but, "[r]ightly or wrongly, . . . on the idea that a person can—and hopefully will—change after several years locked in prison." United States v. Lopez, Cr. No. 97-01117 ACK-2, 2020 WL 6298061, at *5 (D. Haw. Oct. 27, 2020) (quoting United States v. Ledezma-Rodriguez, 472 F. Supp. 3d 498, 506 (S.D. Iowa 2020)).

The nature of Ms. Rendon's crime does not preclude a reduction in sentence. "Section 3582(c)(1) permits a district court to reduce a sentence in 'any case'—not just . . . in cases involving low-level or non-violent offenses." United States v. Kibble, 992 F.3d 326, 334 (4th Cir. 2021) (Gregory, C.J., concurring). Therefore, the Court has the authority to reduce Ms. Rendon's sentence if it finds that extraordinary and compelling circumstances warrant a reduction of her sentence.

Ms. Rendon has a family that loves and cares for her. They are ready and willing to assist Rendon with a successful reentry. If released she would be living with her children at their home – 210 NW 42ND St. Miami, Florida 33127.

Ms. Rendon submits that she is no longer a threat to public safety. The biggest indicator of this is her commitment to rehabilitation, and dramatic character change. The Court should also consider whether, upon release, the defendant would pose "a danger to the safety of any other person or to the community." This Court is not faced with a stark choice between simply turning Rendon loose or continuing her incarceration. The Court has the choice of reducing Rendon's period of incarceration, followed by a term of supervised release.

Supervised release, which is laid out at 18 U.S.C. § 3583, was created by Congress as "a form of post confinement monitoring overseen by the sentencing court." Johnson v. United States, 529 U.S. 694, 696-97 (2000). As the Supreme Court has explained, "Congress intended supervised release to assist individuals in their transition to community life. Supervised release fulfills rehabilitative ends,” providing “individuals with post confinement assistance” through the supervision of the court. United States v. Johnson, 529 U.S. 53, 59 (2000). “The court can provide such assistance because, ‘[w]hile on supervised release, the offender [is] required to abide by certain conditions,’ Johnson v. United States, 529 U.S. at 697, such as regularly reporting to a probation officer, pursuing schooling or work, and refraining from further criminal activity, see U.S.S.G. § 5D1.3(c); 18 U.S.C. § 3583(d).” United States v. Island, 916 F.3d 249, 253 (3d Cir. 2019). Congress has also authorized supervising courts to revoke supervised release and order re-imprisonment when defendants fail to meet their release conditions. See 18 U.S.C. § 3583(e); Johnson v. United States, 529 U.S. at 697.

Supervised release is routinely imposed as a component of sentencing, including sentences for crimes far more serious than those of which Rendon has been convicted. Supervised release affords the court an array of conditions which it can impose, the defendant’s compliance with which will be monitored by a probation officer. New conditions can be added, as necessary. Beyond the low risk that Rendon now presents, whatever risk there is can be further mitigated by supervised release. See United States v. Williams, No. 04cr95, 2020 WL 1751545, at *3 (N.D.Fla. Apr. 1, 2020) (although court could not conclude that defendant posed no risk at all to public safety, “the risk of him engaging in further criminal conduct is minimal and can be managed through home confinement and the terms of his supervised release.”). This supervised release will allow her to still be monitored and provide for her 7-year-old daughter.

There are numerous reasons that demonstrate extraordinary and compelling reasons to reduce the sentence in this case as outlined above.

CONCLUSION

Ms. Rendon is asking this Court for compassion, and in asking for that compassion, she asks that the Court consider the fact that when she was arrested, she was a person who made irrational and irresponsible decisions that she deeply regrets today. She is no longer that person. President Abraham Lincoln once said, “I have always found that Mercy bears richer fruits than strict justice.” Ms. Rendon is asking this Court for the same mercy spoke about by President Lincoln. There is nothing left to gain by continuing to incarcerate a woman who is fully rehabilitated.

This request for compassionate release is a request for a second chance for Ms. Rendon to reclaim her life. To be the daughter, wife, mother, and law-abiding citizen she was meant to be, and to be the primary care provider that her daughter desperately needs.

Respectfully Requested,

Daniela Rendon

Dear Warden,

I am writing to you to request that your office file a motion on my behalf for a reduction in sentence pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 3582. I believe that there are extraordinary and compelling reasons to reduce the sentence in my case. Those reason are (1) I have 2 minor children that need me as their primary care provider, and one nice that is a minor that I have custody of, (2) my rehabilitation (3) Amendment 821 applies to me.

If released I would be living with my children at my home 210 NW 42ND St.
Miami, Florida 33127.

Respectfully Submitted,

Daniela Rendon

Compassionate Release/Reduction In Sentence

Rendon, Daniela

Register No.: 07795-506

Your Compassionate Release/Reduction In Sentence, request dated November 7, 2023, referenced your mother, your children, the children's parents, your mothers VISA, your mothers citizenship, the citizenship of your children, your children's education, and your husband. Specifically, you state that your mother is currently caring for your children and that both parents are in the custody of the Bureau of Prisons. You state your mothers VISA limits her stay until February of 2024. You state your mother is a citizen of Spain. You state both of your children were born in the United States of America and are currently enrolled in school. You state that it is not an option for them to reside with your mother in Spain. Lastly, you state your husband is facing a lesser sentence than yours.

Under the provisions of Title 18, United States Code, Section 3582 (c)(1)(A), and Bureau of Prisons' Program Statement 5050.50, Procedures for Implementation of 18 U.S.C. §§ 3582 and 4205(g), your request has been given careful review, which included updated case summary information. Based upon this information, your request for a Compassionate Release/Reduction In Sentence (RIS) has been denied.

Currently, you do not meet the criteria for Compassionate Release/RIS. The criteria for a RIS request may include non-medical circumstances-death or incapacitation of the family member caregiver. For these requests, "child" means a person under the age of 18 and "incapacitation" means the family member caregiver suffered a severe injury (e.g., auto accident) or suffers from a severe illness (e.g., cancer) that renders the caregiver incapable of caring for the child. Currently, you have not submitted any documentation to support these criteria. At this time, your circumstances do not meet the requirements for consideration.

In compliance with Bureau of Prisons' Program Statement 5050.50, you may appeal this denial through the Administrative Remedy Program.

Please work with Unit Team staff to address your needs, as they may arise.

Progress since last review

AIC did not meet previous next review goal. Previous Next Review Goal Not Met Since Her Last Program Review: She did not enroll/complete the Resolve Workshop since her last program review. However, she is still currently on the waiting list for that program. She did complete the Doula Vocational Training program since her last program review and received her certification. She has also completed the Drug Education program, the Kairos Inside Weekend program, the Mental Health Awareness Seminar, the Healthy Mind program, and three faith-based programs since her last program review. She is currently participating in the Financial Responsibility program, the Women's Relationships II program, and the Healthier Me program since her last program review. She is currently on the waiting list for the Nonresidential Drug Treatment program, as well as eight other programs. She has maintained clear conduct since her last program review, but she has not saved any money for her release.

Next Program Review Goals

The unit team encourages her to complete the Healthier Me program and the Womens Relationships II program by her next program review.

Long Term Goals

The unit team encourages her to complete the Nonresidential Drug Treatment program by 04-04-2025.

RRC/HC PlacementComments

The unit team encourages to maintain communication with the education department to gain knowledge in the programs they have to offer. Inmate is encouraged to maintain communication with unit team to address any questions or concerns inmate may have. The unit team encourages to keep personal and room sanitation at a high level, while saving money for release. Inmate is encouraged to maintain clear conduct, while maintaining communication with friends and family to establish and strengthen social bonds. RRC placement will be accessed in accordance with the Second Chance Act 17-19 months prior to release. Reviewed 407/408 contact information.
